

Nasdaq IPO Clinic:

How to get listed on Nasdaq Nordic markets

Taking your company to the next level, whether it is growing your business in your home market or expanding overseas, can require a lot of capital. Raising capital through an IPO on an exchange is an effective way to secure continuous access to capital markets as well as increase visibility and credibility of the company.

Join us for a panel discussion to hear more about how to raise capital through an IPO on Nasdaq First North or Main Market.

We promise: No boring slide shows or monologs, but facts, feelings and experiences from recently listed, interesting growth companies on their way to global success and financial markets' experts of different fields.
